

Breathe, Ebi

Music and Lyrics by Nick Aliberti and Sierra Scott

Well, you woke up today with that shadow still lurking outside.
That dragon you've slain took you for a bumpy ride.
Don't you know the sun still shines.
So get up and open the blinds.
See that shadow was clear, but now its disappeared.
There's nothing to fear so just open your eyes and

Breathe in and breathe out, Ebi.
Are you wondering if its safe to come out?
Just open your eyes to the skies.
Even when it looks cloudy its only the sun in disguise.

So Breathe in the dry dessert air,
the mountains look like a storybook page.
In the winter they're covered in snow,
But now they're just covered in sage.
You must remember its okay to surrender
Sometimes to feelings of doubt,
Cause to find inner meaning, asking questions and dreaming,
That's what life's all about.

So come on and breathe in and breathe out, Ebi.
Are you wondering if its safe to come out?
Now just open your eyes to the skies.
Even when it looks cloudy, its only the sun in disguise.

You make sure that the curtain always rises
Cause you know that the show must go on.
You can climb to the top of those mountains.
You can watch the sun break the dawn.
You can Spread your wings and ride
Through the storm where the dust meets the rain.
You've never been stronger. Don't fear any longer,
There's nothing to lose and there's so much to gain so just

Breathe in and breathe out, Ebi,
Don't you know that its safe to come out.
Just open your eyes to the skies.
It'll never be cloudy as long as you know when to breathe.

Breathe in, Breathe out, Ebi.