

Hit the Road

Music and Lyrics by Nick Aliberti

Woke up today, the sun on the rise.
Wipe the dreams outta my eyes.
I got that old familiar feeling in my bones.
Calm voice calls to me, saying "claim your destiny".
And I knew it was time to pack our things and go.
Time to hit the road.

"Life's too short"s what I been told.
So me and my girl are gonna hit the road.
This town, it don't feel right, least not right now.
Great wide open gonna lift my soul,
feel a lot lighter when we hit the road.
That old highway's callin' and I just can't back down.
So we hit the road.

Well it's two lanes wide, not a thing in sight: we're rollin'.
Warm vibrations shakin' from the steerin' wheel I'm holdin'.
Gotta say it feel's so good.
Road points to Hollywood.
Fields stretch out, the hills and valleys keep on foldin'.

Now, I'm not sayin' that the grass is greener on the other side.
I just wanna try out all the grass that I can try...

Great wide open gonna save my soul,
so me and my girl are gonna hit the road.
As the crow flies it's only a few more days.
Hills and valleys gonna lift my soul.
I'll write a tune about it when I rock and roll.
Happiness is sought out many ways.

Tomorrow we might feel like headin' out again.
We can go anywhere: there's no fence that can hold us in.
Our home is where we make it.
Whatever road we find, we'll take it.
See that plot of land, let's stake it til its time to Hit the Road.

I got that old familiar feelin' in my bones.
