

Nick Fernandez

Music and Lyrics by Nick Aliberti

There's a name from my past,
It didn't last very long.
But before it was gone,
It was hard to ignore.

There's a picture of me
With a man, had to be my old man.
But hold on, I'm not sure anymore?

Would someone kindly tell me, who is Nick Fernandez?
Is he a sinner or a saint?
Well I know who I am and I know what I ain't.
Is he the kind of person that I'm supposed to be?
Is it him, or is it only me?
Tell me who is he?

I see a cartoon turtle etched in clay,
Framed and put out on display,
Were I the artist, I would be disgraced.
But it seems the artist's been displaced.
And a kindergarten photo,
Apparently the subject was a no show,
But someone's right there in my place.

Would someone kindly tell me who is Nick Fernandez?
Is he a hero or a crook?
Does the film do it justice or should I buy the book?
No way to get around my curiosity,
Is it him, or only me?

"Nick Fernandez", it says here, "Goes to Windsor Twice a Year,
But no one ever calls him his real name.
He would see the folks he missed, once on each check he'd be kissed,
But it just felt like he's playing the wrong game..."

Twilight on Shady Lane: I'm having trouble trying to explain why the footprints in the cement look the same as mine.
I tell them "You know, its my nemesis, I'm having trouble trying to prove that he exists.

But there's a smoking gun, and a man on the run. Gotta find it now or soon he'll be gone."
